

Danny Shipka is an assistant professor at Louisiana State University. He received his undergraduate degrees in Broadcast Journalism and International Studies at Oklahoma State University. While at OSU he worked for several summers as a hall and conference director for Residential Life. He obtained his Ph.D. in Mass Communication from the University of Florida. There he was selected as the journalism schools Graduate Student Teacher of the Year in 2005 and by the university in 2006. He teaches in the public relations field, as well as courses in international public relations and film. In addition to public relations, he is passionate about popular culture studies with regards to television, music, and film.